

IVORY SOAP
IT FLOATS
BEST FOR SHIRTS.
THE PROCTOR & GAMBLE CO. CHICAGO
C.O. & S.W.R.R.
Chesapeake Ohio and Southwestern R. R.
THE BEST LINE BETWEEN
LOUISVILLE
AND
MEMPHIS.
ALSO
FROM AND TO
CINCINNATI AND EVANSVILLE.
—Do not purchase a Ticket—
NORTH, EAST, SOUTH OR WEST
Until you have consulted an Agent of the
C.O. & S.W.R.R.
LIMITED TRAINS.
FULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPERS,
MODERN EQUIPMENT.
JOHN ECHOLS, T. B. LYNCH,
GEN. MGR. GEN. PASS. AGT.
LOUISVILLE, KY.

C.O. & S.W.R.R.
Chesapeake Ohio and Southwestern R. R.
THE BEST LINE BETWEEN
LOUISVILLE
AND
MEMPHIS.
ALSO
FROM AND TO
CINCINNATI AND EVANSVILLE.
—Do not purchase a Ticket—
NORTH, EAST, SOUTH OR WEST
Until you have consulted an Agent of the
C.O. & S.W.R.R.
LIMITED TRAINS.
FULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPERS,
MODERN EQUIPMENT.
JOHN ECHOLS, T. B. LYNCH,
GEN. MGR. GEN. PASS. AGT.
LOUISVILLE, KY.

C.O. & S.W.R.R.
Chesapeake Ohio and Southwestern R. R.
THE BEST LINE BETWEEN
LOUISVILLE
AND
MEMPHIS.
ALSO
FROM AND TO
CINCINNATI AND EVANSVILLE.
—Do not purchase a Ticket—
NORTH, EAST, SOUTH OR WEST
Until you have consulted an Agent of the
C.O. & S.W.R.R.
LIMITED TRAINS.
FULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPERS,
MODERN EQUIPMENT.
JOHN ECHOLS, T. B. LYNCH,
GEN. MGR. GEN. PASS. AGT.
LOUISVILLE, KY.

C.O. & S.W.R.R.
Chesapeake Ohio and Southwestern R. R.
THE BEST LINE BETWEEN
LOUISVILLE
AND
MEMPHIS.
ALSO
FROM AND TO
CINCINNATI AND EVANSVILLE.
—Do not purchase a Ticket—
NORTH, EAST, SOUTH OR WEST
Until you have consulted an Agent of the
C.O. & S.W.R.R.
LIMITED TRAINS.
FULLMAN BUFFET SLEEPERS,
MODERN EQUIPMENT.
JOHN ECHOLS, T. B. LYNCH,
GEN. MGR. GEN. PASS. AGT.
LOUISVILLE, KY.

GROVES
MAKES CHILDREN
AS FAT AS RIGGS
TASTELESS
CHILL
Tonic
IS JUST AS GOOD FOR ADULTS.
WARRANTED. PRICE 50c. bts.
GALATIA, ILL., NOV. 15, 1894.
Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Gentlemen:—We have just received 100 bottles of GROVES' TASTELESS CHILL Tonic and have bought three gross already this year. In all our experience of 14 years, in the drug business, have never sold an article that gave more universal satisfaction as your Tonic. Yours truly,
J. L. CARSON & CO.
For sale by Williams & Bell, Hartford

GROVES
MAKES CHILDREN
AS FAT AS RIGGS
TASTELESS
CHILL
Tonic
IS JUST AS GOOD FOR ADULTS.
WARRANTED. PRICE 50c. bts.
GALATIA, ILL., NOV. 15, 1894.
Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Gentlemen:—We have just received 100 bottles of GROVES' TASTELESS CHILL Tonic and have
bought three gross already this year. In all our experience of 14 years, in the drug business, have
never sold an article that gave more universal satisfaction as your Tonic. Yours truly,
J. L. CARSON & CO.
For sale by Williams & Bell, Hartford

GROVES
MAKES CHILDREN
AS FAT AS RIGGS
TASTELESS
CHILL
Tonic
IS JUST AS GOOD FOR ADULTS.
WARRANTED. PRICE 50c. bts.
GALATIA, ILL., NOV. 15, 1894.
Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Gentlemen:—We have just received 100 bottles of GROVES' TASTELESS CHILL Tonic and have
bought three gross already this year. In all our experience of 14 years, in the drug business, have
never sold an article that gave more universal satisfaction as your Tonic. Yours truly,
J. L. CARSON & CO.
For sale by Williams & Bell, Hartford

GROVES
MAKES CHILDREN
AS FAT AS RIGGS
TASTELESS
CHILL
Tonic
IS JUST AS GOOD FOR ADULTS.
WARRANTED. PRICE 50c. bts.
GALATIA, ILL., NOV. 15, 1894.
Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.
Gentlemen:—We have just received 100 bottles of GROVES' TASTELESS CHILL Tonic and have
bought three gross already this year. In all our experience of 14 years, in the drug business, have
never sold an article that gave more universal satisfaction as your Tonic. Yours truly,
J. L. CARSON & CO.
For sale by Williams & Bell, Hartford

PATENTS
AMERICAN
FOREIGN
Caveats and Trade-Marks obtained and all patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES. My office is in the immediate vicinity of the Patent Office,
and my facilities for securing patents are unsurpassed.
Send model, sketch or photograph of invention, with description and statement as to advantages and uses. No charge to make for an opinion as to patentability, and my fee for procuring the patent is returned when the patent is secured.
"Inventors' Guide," containing full information sent free. All communications considered as strictly confidential.
FRANKLIN H. HOUGH
925 F Street, WASHINGTON, D. C.

PATENTS
AMERICAN FOREIGN
Caveats and Trade-Marks obtained and all patent
business conducted for MODERATE FEES. My office is in the immediate vicinity of the Patent Office,
and my facilities for securing patents are unsurpassed.
Send model, sketch or photograph of invention, with
description and statement as to advantages and uses. No charge to make for an opinion as to patentability, and my fee for procuring the patent is returned when the patent is secured.
"Inventors' Guide," containing full information sent free. All communications considered as strictly confidential.
FRANKLIN H. HOUGH
925 F Street, WASHINGTON, D. C.

PATENTS
AMERICAN FOREIGN
Caveats and Trade-Marks obtained and all patent
business conducted for MODERATE FEES. My office is in the immediate vicinity of the Patent Office,
and my facilities for securing patents are unsurpassed.
Send model, sketch or photograph of invention, with
description and statement as to advantages and uses. No charge to make for an opinion as to patentability, and my fee for procuring the patent is returned when the patent is secured.
"Inventors' Guide," containing full information sent free. All communications considered as strictly confidential.
FRANKLIN H. HOUGH
925 F Street, WASHINGTON, D. C.

PATENTS
AMERICAN FOREIGN
Caveats and Trade-Marks obtained and all patent
business conducted for MODERATE FEES. My office is in the immediate vicinity of the Patent Office,
and my facilities for securing patents are unsurpassed.
Send model, sketch or photograph of invention, with
description and statement as to advantages and uses. No charge to make for an opinion as to patentability, and my fee for procuring the patent is returned when the patent is secured.
"Inventors' Guide," containing full information sent free. All communications considered as strictly confidential.
FRANKLIN H. HOUGH
925 F Street, WASHINGTON, D. C.

PATENTS
AMERICAN FOREIGN
Caveats and Trade-Marks obtained and all patent
business conducted for MODERATE FEES. My office is in the immediate vicinity of the Patent Office,
and my facilities for securing patents are unsurpassed.
Send model, sketch or photograph of invention, with
description and statement as to advantages and uses. No charge to make for an opinion as to patentability, and my fee for procuring the patent is returned when the patent is secured.
"Inventors' Guide," containing full information sent free. All communications considered as strictly confidential.
FRANKLIN H. HOUGH
925 F Street, WASHINGTON, D. C.

TABLER'S PILE
BUCK EYE PILE
OINTMENT
CURES NOTHING BUT PILES.
A SURE AND CERTAIN CURE
known for 18 years as the
BEST REMEDY FOR PILES.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS
Prepared by TABLER & CO., ST. LOUIS

THE ORPHAN.

[BY JOHN HENRY THOMAS.]

Acting on the advice of Horace Greedy, I shook the dust of Boston off my feet and went West to grow up with the country. I located at St. Charles, on the left bank of the Missouri River, to win laurels as a Western lawyer. My board bill ran up and my bank account ran down till I began to think that life was too short for one to grow up with the country, especially if my law practice was a measure of the country's progress. If I was not especially conspicuous at the Bar, I had the pleasure of being a guest of the best families of the city. I had taken some trouble to get into the family of Mrs. Holmes, who was known as the matchmaker, not because I desired her offices in a substantial way, but because her parties were attended by the elite of the city, and one who had been a guest of Mrs. Holmes found a ready welcome into the best families of the city. The coveted opportunity came at last, I was within the frescoed walls of the matchmaker's spacious parlor.

Mrs. Holmes and her two charming daughters were royal receivers, and I soon understood the very great influence they enjoyed in the social life of the city. My hostess, with her usual freedom in arranging a program for her guests, politely made me understand that I was expected to be especially attentive to Mollie Anderson, a bright versatile young lady and a great favorite with the Holmes.

Ralph Costello, a brilliant young attorney, occupied an office adjoining mine, and our terms of intimacy were such that a door opening from my office into his had been for several weeks unlocked and by my special effort he had been induced to honor the occasion with his presence. In the midst of the evening's festivities a slight figure tripped lightly up the stairs, crossed the room and took her place at the piano. While she ran her fingers lightly over the keys each suggested his favorite piece, but turning her eyes upon Costello waited. In a voice which disclosed his emotion, he said: "The queen of the roses."

The music fell upon my ears like a melody sung by Seraphs and borne on the twinkling rays of the distant stars, all were still and quiet, alike enraptured and becalmed. She touched the keys lightly, to soften their dying tones, and left the room as suddenly as she had come. Who she was or whence she came was alike to me a mystery. As she passed out of the room I viewed her with the closest scrutiny. Large, soft blue eyes lit up her matchless face, a faint smile played upon her mouth, which was small and full and gilded with a tinge of roses. Her hair was delicately coiled about her well formed head in golden strands, as if freshly bathed in the dying rays of an autumn sunset. She had come and gone without addressing or being addressed and performed a service like a menial slave.

"How did you like that music last night?" Ralph asked next morning, dropping into my office before entering his.

"Sublimity outdone," I answered. "And the musician, the sublimest of the sublime." And he passed on to his office. I thought I detected a little jealousy in Ralph's flashing eyes when I expressed an uninvited opinion of the sweet singer of the previous evening. It was apparent from her awaiting his choice and his readiness to express it, that Ralph had met the lady before, and I determined to ask him about her.

"Say Ralph, wasn't it a bit strange the conduct of that young lady, half angel and half servant, who played that delightful music last night?" I asked.

"I can't see where you make a division of character?"

"She was half angel," I answered, "by her heavenly appearance and half servant by her rendering to entertain without being recognized. And I should conclude from the preference she gave you last night that you had met her before."

He showed no anxiety to disclose his acquaintance with the girl and I asked directly, "Who is she, and where have you met her?"

"She is a niece of Mrs. Holmes and lives with her I believe, and I have never met her except by accident."

"Why has she not a place in Mrs. Holmes' parlor?" I asked, drawing heavily upon his knowledge of the young lady, in whom by the way, I became keenly interested.

"Allie is the only child of Lester Ragon, who died some four years ago in a Colorado alms house, and I suppose," he continued, "that the haughty matchmaker," expressing his contempt for Mrs. Holmes, "fears that her brother's misfortune might become public by bringing Allie out."

"But that rapturous rendering of the 'Requiem of the roses' ill-fitted one brought up with a howl?"

"Ragon was a mine speculator and had seen better days; Allie had been instructed by some of the best masters in Europe."

"And she lives with Mrs. Holmes?"

"Yes, in a state of gilded slavery," he replied and passed out of the office to avoid further interrogation.

Ralph knew more of Allie Ragon than he cared to express, and though he took little interest in social affairs, he seemed to be thoroughly conversant with the minutest details of the matchmaker's plans, and convinced me of the fact by forecasting social events without absolute accuracy.

"I am a sort of rare medium, you see," he would say, when his source of prophecy, but I, inclined to the belief, that Allie Ragon was the medium. One morning a beardless lad not yet out of his teens attended my office, came into my office and introduced himself as Bernard Whately, charged with stealing a diamond brooch from a Vine Street jeweler. We hastily prepared for trial, the witnesses were few and in easy reach and the case was called in the afternoon. It developed at the trial that the only person present, while the tray containing the jewel was exposed and the suspicion naturally rested on the poor widow's boy. Mrs. Holmes created quite a sensation by testifying that when she last saw the missing brooch Allie was standing upon one side of the tray and Whately upon the other. The apparent eagerness with which she implicated her niece bore evidence of being intentional. Notwithstanding the imperfect evidence against him, the boy was given a term in prison. I related the case, in detail to Costello, and expressed my opinion in favor of Whately's protest of guilt.

"The jewel could be found under the Holmes roof," he said, with the dignity one given to know hidden things.

"Under which particular part of it?"

"In Allie's apartment," he replied, and expressed his unwillingness to be further interrogated.

I was at a loss to account for Ralph's willingness to implicate his adorable queen, as he has once addressed her in a letter that inadvertently fell under my gaze, in such a shameful crime, especially since he spoke of the matter carelessly, as if it was of little consequence anyway. A few mornings later, Jerome Shirley, general manager of the Missouri River transportation Company, came into my office to inquire if anything could be done to save Bernard Whately from serving a term in prison for a crime of which he believed the boy innocent.

"He is a good honest boy," said Mr. Shirley, "and has been in our employ a couple of years, and I never saw anything crooked about him. In fact we have trusted him with the value of a whole tray of old Roby's jewelry, and he has never misappropriated a cent, and besides he is the sole support of his widowed mother and two smaller sister, and it will break the old thing's heart to see him go to prison."

I quickly reflected on the practical use I might make of Costello's unguarded statement of the whereabouts of the missing brooch.

"I could possibly exonerate the lad Mr. Shirley, but I should have to implicate parties whose enmity I am loath to incur, and it would be an exceedingly unpleasant task."

"Would a—fee," naming a fee larger than I had ever received for any legal service, "make it pleasant work?" he asked eagerly.

I had never received so large a fee nor had such a distinguished client, but the humiliation of Allie and a social boycott by Mrs. Holmes were not calculated to enhance my earthly happiness. I asked for time to consider the matter. Inviting Mr. Shirley to call next morning, I had implicit confidence in Ralph's knowledge of the missing brooch, but I dreaded an exposure, but what ill could come of exposing the guilty to save the innocent? and it was in my power to open prison doors to a widow's innocent boy and I resolved to do it. The next morning I hastily secured a process for searching Mrs. Holmes' house, and I accompanied the officer with hope of getting at the bottom of the mysterious affair. We went directly to Allie's room. The officer, addressing Allie said:

"Miss Ragon I regret the necessity which compels me to search your apartments for the missing property from Mr. Roby's jewelry store some time ago."

"I readily grant you the fullest freedom in searching my scanty belongings," she replied cheerfully, and proceeded to facilitate the officer's work. Unless she is the strongest character this side the Atlantic, Ralph's spirits have played him false this time, I whispered to myself, and I began to fear that I should be held responsible for the unwarranted invasion of one of the best houses in the city. Allie was readily assisting the officer to examine the most hidden recesses of the room when she picked up a small jewel casket she had carried the day that the theft was committed. She opened it quickly, but let it fall to the floor; the missing jewel was there. Mrs. Holmes, who had been a quiet witness of the proceedings, in a cold matter-of-fact way, deplored the misfortune, and advised the trembling girl to make a confession of the whole matter.

"But, Aunt Amelia, I have nothing to confess, I never put it there," and she sank upon a sofa and wept bitterly.

I returned with the officer to the jeweler's, who readily identified his missing property. I entreated the irate jeweler to keep the matter quiet expressing my belief in Miss Ragon's innocence, notwithstanding the criminal evidence, and promising to spare no effort to clear up the matter and bring the guilty party to justice. Despite my efforts to keep the matter quiet it got into the evening papers and I got quite and airy advertising. Ralph rushed into my office with the Evening Express in one hand and wildly gesticulating with the other, exclaimed:

"McLean, you perfidious scoundrel, you poorly deserve the petty praise you are given by this dirty sheet," pitching the Evening Express contemptuously on my desk, "for surrendering your dignity as lawyer and playing the role of the sneak detective."

"I have exposed the guilty to save the innocent," I answered, essaying to reason with my irate friend.

"You have exposed your very low standard of personal honor by your breach of confidence and your humiliation of a defenseless girl," he exclaimed angrily and advanced toward me. I rose from my chair and smarting under his stinging tirade, hastened to assure him that his definite knowledge of the whereabouts of the stolen jewel and his indignation at its recovery would be summarily rewarded with his arrest as an accomplice of the theft. The presence of a police officer cut short our stormy interview and Ralph passed into his own office and locked our partition door securely. The door was provided with a lock for each side and I fished out my rusty key and secured my lock also. I had not the slightest idea that Ralph was in any way connected with the theft and had only taunted him with it to avenge his indignities. (Continued next week.)

Have you attended to your duties by paying your subscription?

Appropriations.

Whatever else the Legislature may do or leave undone it will violate general and individual pledges and justly incur public censure if it is careless and extravagant in voting away the money of the people. Already bills have been introduced by Senators appropriating more than $2,300,000, and the sum called for Assemblymen exceed $3,800,000. The motive which commonly lead members of the Legislature to propose such draft upon the State treasury is perfectly intelligible and not altogether discreditable. Every community desires to see its special interests promoted, and is likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present its claim. So that the representative who applies for an appropriation generally understands and reflects a local sentiment which requires him to take precautions against "getting left," and the list of bills which at this stage in every session suggests bankruptcy exhibits in detail in aspiration of towns and cities as well as the longing of individuals for "good things." But when the aggregate of these demands is studied by conscientious legislators who have merely followed the general practice of preferring claims, they are likely to reason that, if public help is to be distributed, it is entitled to present

LOOK! LOOK!

Has an immense stock of Gents Furnishing Good, Ladies Dress Goods, Spring Shoes for Ladies and Gentlemen.

LARGE STOCK OF CLOTHING

For Men, Boys and Children, also a nice line of Hats for Boys and Men, cheaper than they can be sold anywhere else in Kentucky. The ladies are requested to call and examine our line of fine carpeting. Cheaper than the cheapest. While attending Court visit the Mammoth Cash Store. Everything bought at hard-time prices.

J. B. FOSTER,

Proprietor.

Hartford Republican

PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING

SAN A. ANDERSON, Proprietor.

JO. B. ROGERS, Editor.

FRIDAY, MARCH 1, 1895.

STATE SENATOR.

We are authorized to announce

DR. A. D. JAMES,

Of Muhlenberg county, as a candidate for State Senator in the 8th Senatorial District, subject to the action of the Republican party.

The State Assembly of the Knights of Labor is in session at Louisville this week.

In a fight Monday evening at Council Bluffs, Ia., between the bank robbers and the police several officers and citizens were wounded. Two of the robbers were wounded and captured.

The House refused to pass the appropriation bill to pay the $425,000 award to Great Britain arising out of Paris arbitration tribunal for the seizure of the twenty Canadian vessels by the United States before the modus vivendi of 1892.

To-night's mass meeting with the Commercial Club will be one of the most important gatherings the people of Hartford have ever had the privilege of attending. Everybody should turn out. Let the ladies especially attend.

A YOUNG man at Lexington Tuesday night was drinking with his friends in a saloon and there he made a wager that he could drink more whisky than anyone else in the crowd. He drank fifty drinks and fell dead from heart failure. No room for saloons in Hartford.

The Democratic papers, which last week, spoke of Ramsey, the defaulting Democratic Treasurer of Illinois as a Republican, have so far failed to apologize to their readers for their glaring mistake or intentional falsehood, whichever it may have been. But they don't propose to apologize.

The latest from Lexington is to the effect that a bloody fight was narrowly averted Saturday night at a cocking main held near the city. Several prominent professional men and at least one city official were present. When these blue-blooded ducks began to quarrel and fight over a miserable little chicken fight it's certainly time to rub Lexington off the map.

By the woful mismanagement of this Democratic Administration the Government lost in the recent bond issue $8,418,757. The face of the issue was $62,315,000, for which the Government obtained $65,112,943. In a few hours the bonds had been sold by the syndicate and the former amount had been cleared by the money sharks of Wall Street. Instead of receiving the $65,112,943 alone the Government should have obtained $73,531,700. The $8,418,757 compounded as a sinking fund at 4 per cent. for thirty years would be $27,628,676, or nearly half the original loan. The transaction was enough to bring the blush of shame to the cheek of every patriotic American.

EX-SHERIFF John I. Vanarsdell, of Harrodsburg, who murdered Dr. Harrod of the same city a few months ago, was last week acquitted. The acquittal of a man so unmistakably guilty is an insult to the State and its law-abiding people. A Lexington dispatch says:

"The news of the verdict of the Harrodsburg jury acquitting John I. Vanarsdell the slayer of Dr. Harrod, was received in Lexington with general indignation, and the jury is roundly condemned. Dr. Harrod was raised here and his widow and all her family reside in Fayette county. The public denounce the verdict as a travesty of justice, and believe that the effect of the acquittal of Vanarsdell will do more injury to the State than anything that has occurred since the War. Dr. Harrod was born north of the Mason and Dixon line, and the people in this section of the Bluegrass want the people of the North to know that they join with them in condemning this prostitution of justice. There is intense excitement here over the unexpected verdict."

A DISPATCH from Washington published in Monday's Louisville Commercial contains some interesting reading relative to the discriminations by the present Administration between the veterans of the Mexican war and those of the Late War. We clip the following from the dispatch:

"The smaller portion of those who are drawing pensions for the Mexican war were never near Mexico, and never smelt burnt powder. Some of them enlisted for two months, and never went outside the lines of their own States. With the economists of the Democratic Administration holding back appropriations for a needed public buildings, and with the Pension Bureau officials scaling down pensions for the soldiers of the late war, it seems rather peculiar that a bill increasing the Mexican pension roll by hundreds of thousands of dollars should be passed. The secret lies in the fact that nearly all the beneficiaries of the proposed increase are located in the Southern States.

"The Commissioner of Pensions, who has suspended so many deserving Union soldiers, has never yet suspended a Mexican pensioner. Yet it would seem that the Mexican pension roll should be restricted rather than extended. On the Mexican pension roll there are the names of 15,215 survivors and 7,282 widows and something over 3,000 cases were pending at last reports. This makes a total of 25,497 or several thousand more men than the United States had in Mexico at any one time during the war. These all receive either $8 or $12 a month."

Such a state of case is unworthy of this great country, but the Democracy's enmity to the old soldier of the late war is such that nothing that party might do against them could scarcely be called surprising.

Have you paid your subscription?

The Covington Post has the following to say: "It is refreshing to note that the Somerset, Paragon and the Hartford Republican, two of the brightest Republican newspapers in Kentucky, are disposed to break away from the idea that the Republicans have but one leader in the State who can poll the party strength. The one-man idea is dying out in Kentucky. So long as the people and political parties are taught that they have but one leader fit for service, that long will the State remain in the rear of the procession.

How to Stop a Paper.

You have a right to stop your paper upon the payment of arrears. Don't you hesitate on account of tenderness for an editor. He would quit buying where he thought he was not getting his money's worth, and why should you not exercise the same privilege? When you discontinue a paper, do so manfully. Don't spitefully throw it back to the postmaster with a contemptuous "I don't want it," and have it returned to the editor with "refused" written on the margin. No gentleman ever stopped a paper that way, no matter if his head was covered with gray hair. If you no longer wish to receive a newspaper, write a letter to the editor like a man saying so, and be sure that all arrears are paid.—[Ex.]

Have you attended to your duties by paying your subscription?

The Elrod Case.

The Louisville Post says: The case of the Commonwealth against Walter Elrod for making and circulation obscene pictures was again continued in the Criminal division this morning. The continuance was granted on the testimony of Elrod's physician, Dr. W. B. Daugherty. He said that his patient was very ill, his fever being considerably above 100 degrees this morning.

The physician said by way of explanation that it might be inferred that he only said Elrod was ill in order to get a continuance, and that he was sorry it devolved upon him as the defendant's physician to testify to his illness, which could cause but another continuance.

To this Judge Jackson said he knew the physician too well for him to swear to anything but the truth. Prosecuting Attorney Parsons is considerably wrought up over the many continuances, and says if Elrod is not ready for trial next time he would suggest that he be fined. The case was continued until March 28.

Nervous People

And those who are all tired out and have that tired feeling or sick headache can be relieved of all these symptoms by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which gives nerve, mental and bodily strength and thoroughly purifies the blood. It also creates a good appetite, cures indigestion, heartburn and dyspepsia.

Hood's Pills are easy to take, easy in action and sure in effect.

ADMINISTRATION.

The Lebanon Man Gives His Opinion of Same.

LEBANON, Ky., Feb. 25, 1895.

Surely any careful student of history, who is not a Democrat by inheritance, can well see that the Democratic party from the time it developed slowly into existence, as an opposition to the Washington Administration, until now, has been a standing menace not only to the welfare of the Government, but to its existence. Rule or ruin has ever been the main spring of its being. Holding to the name of Democracy it changed its principles, when it saw fit to espouse any, even as the winds change. Formerly one generation of Democrats could recognize no familiar principle espoused by the generation which had preceded them. Now, the principles advocated by the Democratic party change with each succeeding year, and it has come now to be a nice question among themselves as to what is Democracy? None of the Democratic papers in Louisville agree. The whole Democratic press of the State and Democratic politicians are busy themselves in reading each other out of the party.

If there is anything in signs, and all signs don't fail, there is going to be the prettiest kettle of fish hanging on the crane, ready to be served, at the great family reunion on the 25th of June next, that ever won praise for any first-class cook. Oh, my countryman! What a day that will be. Will they endorse Cleveland's Administration? Kentucky Democrats, never straddle. Will they declare for free and unlimited coinage of silver? Eighty per cent. of the Democrats of the State are for it. What will they do? We will see. Carlisle, when in the Senate, voted for free silver. Now he is a gold bug. Our own Montgomery voted for free silver and promised his constituents in Ohio county, and elsewhere in the District, to advocate free and unlimited coinage. Now he is a gold bug and upholds the hands of Cleveland and Carlisle in their bunco game with the gold sharks of Wall Street; that holy horror of all good Anarchistic Democrats.

The nomination of a candidate for Governor will be a small affair, beside their platform of principles. They may sacrifice their choice for Governor, but a principle never. The fight for the nomination will be tame. The fight for a platform will be sufficiently enlivening. "Honest" Watt Hardin, for instance, will be perfectly willing to run on a free silver platform or on a solid gold basis; or he will run on a platform with National issues entirely eliminated, and State issues and the money of State issues also, for that matter, eliminated too. Granger Clay will do the same, only he will prefer that a money of State issues and the State's concerns in the past be kept to the front.

If Mr. Carlisle thinks the cuckoos are in the ascendancy in Kentucky he will find his mistake when that convention meets. The "good bye earth and howdy do!" element is strongly in the land of the blue grass and he should not let that escape his memory. When the old antagonist of Pennsylvania Avenue, the prognosticator of the glory and grandeur of Duluth, meets in the arena every form of gold and gold bonds, the gilded advocates of Wall Street can furnish, there will be such a scene as is only equalled amid the wild revelries of these for whom the bi-chloride of gold is prescribed. And there will be Joe Blackburn, too, who would rather be U. S. Senator than to be right. He will only play second fiddle to old "howdy do hell," but he will make a good hand at that. Seriously, Mr. Knott, I think, will make himself felt in that convention. The fact that he is a free silver man, I don't think was generally known among his friends here in Lebanon, where he for so many years made his home, and which, I believe, he still claims as his home. His superior talent and great ability will command for him consideration very vexatious to the cuckoos. He knows them all and knows how they formerly stood on the silver question when they were their own men and dared vote their own sentiments. His appearance in that convention will be very embarrassing to many of the cuckoos.

Republicans will await their action with that interest which always attaches to a first-class entertainment of a serio-comic character. The Republican party is a sound money party, its declaration on the subject, that will make a kill-kenny cat fight of the Democratic party, is as well known now as it will be when made. Its nomination for Governor is as certain. Bradley will be nominated for Governor and will be elected; and in the event we control the Legislature, John W. Lewis will be the next U. S. Senator and thus will we finally dispose of "Honest" Watt and Joe Blackburn both. C. J.

Text of Procter Knott's Famous Financial Letter.

Following is the letter of ex-Gov. J. Procter Knott to Senator Blackburn, about which so much has been said recently:

"I don't know when my Democracy has been more completely outraged than by the last insolent demand of the goldites, that the government shall issue $500,000,000 in gold bonds and retire the treasury note circulation with the proceeds. They don't want to leave us even a hereafter. You know, as everybody else must who has half as much sense as a suckling guinea pig, that when ever this government agrees to pay that amount or a tithe of it in gold, silver is doomed, so far as we are concerned to all eternity. As old Judge Forbush said to Johnny Moore, we had just as well say 'Good bye, World,' and 'Howdy Hell.'"

"Great God, how rapidly this long-suffering people are being driven to the dreadful alternative of slavery or internal strife, to determine whether they will tamely hold out their hands and have the shackles of a remorseless plutocracy riveted on their wrists or fight."

"Now, mark what I say, if the inexorable law of cause and effect has not been expunged from the statute book of the Almighty, unless a that is made P. D. Q., you may expect to see the horrors of revolution put on the American stage with all the modern improvements, and within the next decade. I remember I was suspected by some of my friends of political lunacy in 1860 because I predicted in the event of Mr. Lincoln's election there would be a war between the States. They could not see why it ought to be so. Neither could I, but I knew the causes which were at work, and which in the long run produced that result, and I regarded his election simply as a spark which would explode the mine. So when the fiery cloud appeared in the less than one short year which deluged the country in blood for nearly a lustrium, some of those who had thought me a croaker, a mere dyspeptic pessimist, began to regard me, as Byron Jeffreys says, as a 'discerning fellow.'"

"I tell you, senator, in all seriousness, I see far more reason to apprehend the speedy approach of a terrible revolution in this country than Lord Chesterfield saw in France when he wrote his historic prediction from Paris. Nor am I alone. That gentleman, Mr. Astor, who went to England some time ago, bought him a place on the island and became a British subject, saw what is coming as plainly as I do, so he took time for the forelock and skipped out when there wasn't such a rush for state-rooms as there will be after a while. He knew very well that if things should keep on as you and I have seen them for some years past the time wasn't far off when there would be such a crowd of his class of people hurrying aboard of every outgoing steamer he might be shoved off the stage plank."

Our good friend Mr. Sibley sent me a copy of his magnificent speech against the Carlisle abortion the other day. I was sick in bed when it came, lonesome and low spirited, my wife in Louisville under treatment for her throat trouble, and not a God-blessed friend near me to cheer me up. I read it over—in some places two or three times—and it stirred my old blood like the call of the trumpet stirs that of the war-horse or perhaps you will understand me better when I say it acted on me like good wine—King Solomon's favorite prescription to those that have heavy hearts. As the average United States Senator is not presumed to be familiar with the writings of that eminent author, see Prov. xxxi., ver. 7. Sibley and free silver, forever."

Rubber Stamps.

If you want a Rubber Stamp from a single name up to a large size business Stamp, call on or write to Galen C. Westerfield Manufacturer of Rubber Stamps, Hartford, Ky.

CANEYVILLE

Is Reforming and Will Soon be a Model Town.

Caneyville as it is to-day, is altogether different from what it was a short time ago. Then profanity and whisky were the order of the day, now you would scarcely hear a "cuss word" during the run of a day, and as for whisky there is so little of that used that I am afraid the poor saloon keeper will be compelled to go to work. This change has been brought about by the great revival meeting conducted by the Rev. J. W. Lytle, which closed last Tuesday night, at which 60 souls professed religion and completely revolutionized Caneyville for all time.

The charming weather of the past week has renewed hope in the hearts of everyone and our business men are feeling its effect in the greater activity of trade.

The new Roller Mills, under the Management of Messrs. Shrewsbury & Byers, have been completed and is now turning out flour of as good quality as can be produced in Kentucky.

There has been more live stock shipped from this point during the past two months than ever has been in the corresponding months of any year in the history of Caneyville. The cause of this lies in the fact that two-thirds of the farmers in this section did not raise enough feed to carry them through this winter and the consequence was that they were compelled to sell at any price, in preference to seeing them starve to death.

There is a gang of thieves playing their vocation around here, that is a disgrace to any community, and it is wonderful that the officers of the law do not make an effort to bring them to justice, but so far no such effort has been made on their part, and I am afraid that Judge Lynch will have to be called upon before the thing is stopped. A few nights ago the saloon building owned by Dan Owsley was broke into and about $50 worth of whisky, tobacco and canned goods taken. There are plenty of clues to the thieves, but it seems everyone is passive, and so they escape. Then early Sunday morning a house belonging to Esq. Charles McDaniel, in which all the household goods of Life House were stored, was fired by the incendiary's torch and everything he had in the world was either stolen or consumed in the blaze. The house was about a mile from Caneyville and was known as the old Ben Morris place.

The happiest man in Caneyville to-day is our postmaster, Eli Harned. Eli professed religion at the revival meeting and the joy expressed on his face to-day will convince anyone that he is the genuine article without any adulteration whatever.

The ice crop here was remarkably fine. Mr. Geo. Y. Crawford put up almost one hundred tons for the summer trade, beside a number of other ice houses were filled by private individuals.

Corn is selling here at 60 cents a bushel and meat at 70 cents.

I had a peculiar dream a few nights since which I would like some of the wise readers of THE REPUBLICAN to interpret for me. I thought I was in heaven and instead of the regulation jasper walls, crowns, etc. it seemed like a great level plain where all the buildings were large white structures, and all the people were dressed a like in light gray suits, and seemed to be happy in a ceaseless round of industry of one kind or other. All were busily employed and I wondered what I would do, when the Master appeared wearing a long flowing robe of white, which changed at times to gray, and pointing to some sheep told me to take charge of them and it should be my constant employment to attend to them and take care of them. There were 15 the flock and during my care of them, two died which left me with only 13, but I had an increase of several lambs, and when the Master came again, he was well pleased and told me the increase was as good as those that died. Afterwards the wool on my sheep began to grow until it was several times longer and finer than anything I had ever seen. I thought it was my duty to take the fleece off and grasping it in my hands I commenced to pull when the whole fleece slipped off. I had taken two off and throwing one on top of the other I was surprised to see that they just fitted exactly; at this moment the Master again appeared and commended me for what I had

DON'T STOP TOBACCO

IT'S INJURIOUS TO STOP SUDDENLY and don't be imposed upon by buying a remedy that requires you to do so; as it is nothing more than a substitute. In the sudden stoppage of tobacco you must have some stimulant, and in most all cases, the effect of the stimulant, be it opium, morphine or other opiates, leaves a far worse habit contracted. Ask your druggist about BACO-CURO. It is purely vegetable. You do not have to stop using tobacco with BACO-CURO. It will notify you when to stop and your desire for tobacco will cease. Your system will be as free from nicotine as the day before you took your first chew or smoke. An iron-clad written guarantee to absolutely cure the tobacco habit in all its forms, or money refunded. Price $1.00 per box or 3 boxes (30 days treatment and guaranteed cure), for $2.50. For sale by all druggists or will be sent by mail upon receipt of price. SEND SIX TWO CENT STAMPS FOR SAMPLE BOX. Booklets and proofs free. Eureka Chemical & Mfg Co., La Cross, Wis.

Office of THE PIONEER PRESS COMPANY, C. W. HORNICK, Supt. St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 7, 1894.

Eureka Chemical and Mfg Co., La Cross, Wis. Dear Sirs.—I have been a tobacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years have smoked fifteen to twenty cigars regularly every day. My whole nervous system became affected, until my physicians told me I must give up the use of tobacco for the time being, at least. I tried the so-called "Keeley Cure," "No-To-Bac," and various other remedies, but without success, until I accidentally learned of your "Baco-Curo." Three weeks ago to-day I commenced using your preparation, and to-day I consider myself completely cured; I am in perfect health, and the horrible craving for tobacco, which ever inveterate smoker fully appreciates, has completely left me. I consider your "Baco-Curo" simply wonderful, and can fully recommend it. Yours very truly, C. W. HORNICK.

PURE is the whole story about ARM AND HAMMER SODA in packages. Costs no more than other package soda—never spoils. Four—universally acknowledged purest in the world. Made only by CHURCH & CO., New York. Sold by grocers everywhere. Write for Arm and Hammer Book of valuable Recipes—FREE.

done, pointed to a great white temple and told me to lift them and deposit them there, that they were required in making the beautiful robes like those he was wearing. Then I awoke but the dream has left an impression on my mind that I cannot shake off. G. E.

Why not do so at once—pay your subscription.

Master McHenry Holbrook has recovered from his recent illness.

Excursion Rates.

Kentucky Prohibition State Convention at Louisville Ky. Feb. 26th and 27th 1895, all ticket agents in Kentucky will issue certificates to purchasers of tickets to Louisville returning them at one third fare. H. MERRICK, Agent.

Williams & Bell Hartford, Ky. sell "Pomroy's Vermifuge" the great remedy for children and guaranteed every bottle, remember it always saves the children" and cost only 25cts per bottle.

An Advertisement in the paper is worth two on the fence.

The Hartford Photo Car.

A. D. Taylor, the Beaver Dam Photographer, has located his Photo Car in Hartford and will make Pictures here every Monday all day in the Hartford Photo Car. Mr. Taylor will be found at his home gallery in Beaver Dam balance of the time. We are glad to say he ranks up with the ablest Photographers in the State. First-class work guaranteed.

"When beauty comes he takes it; If there is none he makes it."

An effective advertisement is an anchor, which will often hold a disabled business from drifting on to the ragged reef of financial failure.

Notice!

All persons indebted to the estate of John C. Townsend, deceased, are requested to call on me at once, at my office in Hartford and settle same and save cost.

This February 14, 1895. J. S. R. WEDDING, Administrator.

Wanted.

Everybody to know that Groves' Tasteless Chill Tonic is guaranteed to Cure Chills and fever, Lagrippe Bad Colds &c., or your money will be refunded in every instance. Sold by William & Bell, Hartford Ky.

RIPANS ONE GIVES RELIEF.

Notice. I am prepared to do all kind of hauling by the day or contract on short notice, all orders left for me with Carson & Co will receive prompt attention. W. H. BURTON.

Born to the wife of R. H. Gillespie on the 25th, a fine girl.

A Tribute to Advertising. C. I. Hood & Co., of Lowell, have recently issued 10,500,000 elegant calendars. These figures are so large that it requires a good stretch of the imagination to be able to grasp them. Think right here of the story of the little acorn and the "lofty oak." Think of the Royal Raking powders, of its small beginning. Think of lots of other noted advertisers, where they were once, where they are now. Then think of the possibilities in store for you, provided you have a good article, considerable sand, and lots of grit—[Profitable Advertising.]

The best insurance policy against business failure is an effective Advertisement.

Defender Documents.

Number 5 and 75 have just been issued by the American Protective Tariff League. No. 5, nineteen pages, entitled "Business Conditions" or "The First Effects of Free Trade," comprises a careful review and compilation of statistics showing disastrous results of a free trade administration. No. 72, eight pages, entitled "Wages in the United States," is the translation of a paper by Mons. E. Levasseur, read at the Institute of France. Both documents are interesting and valuable additions to protection literature. Will be sent to any address for two cents each. Address W. F. Wakeman, Gen. Sec., 135 West 23d St., New York.

SULPHUR SPRINGS.

The farmers in this community are now busily engaged in their spring work, some are sowing tobacco beds while others are sowing oats and some repairing and building fences, health is generally good.

Born Feb. 20, to the wife Wm. H. Davis, a 10th boy. Mother and child doing well.

Feb. 25th, to the wife of John O. Doffron an 8th girl. Mother and child doing well.

Messrs. John Wilson Asa Miller and John Miller, of Edmonson county, are visiting relatives near Palo, this county. Mr. A. S. Aull went to Bardstown last Saturday. E. G.

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair.

DR. PRICE'S
CREAM
BAKING
POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

FRIDAY, MARCH 1, 1895.

Mr. J. E. Rowe, Owensboro, is in town.

Mr. H. P. Taylor was in Louisville this week.

Rev. L. R. Barnett, of Marmaduke, Ark., is in town.

Mr. John P. Rowe, Centertown, was in town Tuesday.

Call on Bullington and Cain during court for a good, easy shave.

Mr. Thos. O. Baker, Renter, called to see us while in town Tuesday.

Mr. Jas. Pierce, Centertown, called to see us while in town last Saturday.

Mr. S. W. Tichenor, Point Pleasant, gave us a pleasant call Wednesday.

Mr. T. S. Brown, of Centertown, gave us a very pleasant call Wednesday.

Miss Mamie Spalding, Louisville, is visiting the family of Dr. Alexander.

Mr. S. W. Tichenor was sworn in Wednesday as Deputy Clerk at Point Pleasant.

Hot Coffee and lunch at all hours at Hall Bros., corner Union and Market Streets.

Hartford College continues to improve and new students are coming in every day.

Mr. G. C. Westerfield was in Cromwell this week on business for THE REPUBLICAN.

Mr. W. L. Spalding, Louisville, visited his family last Sunday and Monday at this place.

Mr. A. V. Thompson, of Louisville and Mr. Robert Daniel, Beaver Dam, called to see us Wednesday.

Bullington & Cain have new barber tools throughout and are prepared to give you the very best work.

Mr. E. S. Barnes, living near Centertown lost his meat, house coal house, and hen house by fire last Monday night. Loss was about $10,000.

Messrs Bullington & Cain have rented the new barber shop, and have put in new furniture throughout, and are better prepared than ever to accommodate the trade.

Mr. S. W. Tichenor closed a very successful singing school of twelve lessons at Rockport Tuesday night. Mr. Tichenor gave general satisfaction, and was well pleased with the Rockport people.

The Commercial Hotel is amply prepared to comfortably accommodate all guests at most reasonable rates, giving them the best to eat the markets afford. Two sample rooms; politest attention guaranteed. Special rates to jurymen and witnesses by the week during Circuit Court.

Mr. C. R. Martin, the hustling Jeweler, has moved his jewelry stock to the L. B. Bean old stand, and besides keeping the best stock of jewelry in the Green River country, he will handle all kinds of Feed Stuff. Mr. Martin is a first-class gentleman, and if you need anything in his line would do well to call on him.

We are adding new type and printing material to our stock every week and are now better prepared than ever to do the very best job work at the very lowest prices. Call on us for prices and you will be sure to leave an order for your work. We will make a specialty of Horse and Jack Bills, and have card board made especially for that purpose, and will put them up at lowest possible prices.

Two New Mines.
The Mining town of Deaneville is just now enjoying a boom says the Owensboro Messenger. Deaneville is perfectly alive with men. Many buildings are in process of construction and the town is on a boom in every respect. Messrs. Chambers & Cooper, of Havesville, have leased 300 acres for twenty years from Messrs. Credon and Thos. Hardin, and have selected a place to sink the shaft where there is a stratum of coal 4 1/2 feet thick. They will begin work on the shaft in a few days and will soon be getting out coal.

Another company, the names of the members of which are not yet known, will open a mine near Deaneville in a short while and that will make four coal mines at that place.

Mass Meeting.
A Mass Meeting of the citizens of Hartford has been called to meet in connection with the Commercial Club at the Court House to-night. Matters of great importance will come up for discussion, and a full attendance of the members of the Club and of the citizens generally, and the ladies especially, is earnestly solicited and requested. J. S. R. WEDDING, President Hartford Commercial Club.

Have you renewed your subscription for 1895?

Seed potatoes at Carson & Co's.

Come to Carson & Co. for furniture.

The best Lunch and Hot Coffee at Hall Bros.

Early Rose seed potatoes at Carson & Co's.

New line of spring hats at Fair Bros. & Co's.

Neckwear, all styles and prices, at Carson & Co's.

Tobacco Cotton 1 1/2, 2 and 3cts, at Fair Bros. & Co's.

See the new novelties in hair pins at Carson & Co's.

27 pounds N. O. Sugar for $1.00 in cash at Carson & Co's.

You can find a big assortment of shoes at Carson & Co's.

Good drivers and Good horses for hire at Field & Holbrook's.

A small line of prints for 4cts per yard at Fair Bros. & Co's.

We have a beautiful line of outing shirts. CARSON & Co.

We sell two spools of thread for 5 cents. CARSON & Co.

Mrs. Newcomb and Mr. Nimmo, Clear Run, called to see us yesterday.

Remember that Field & Holbrook keep good rigs for hire day or night.

The finest line of ladies and children's shoes are now at Fair Bros. & Co's.

Fair Bros. & Co. are leaders in their line. Visit them for lowest prices.

Hall Bros. will give you a square meal for 20c.—the best the market affords.

Entire line of heavy woolen dress goods go regardless of price at Fair Bros. & Co's.

Every pair of A Priesmeyers shoes warranted. You can find them at Fair Bros. & Co's.

We still have a few all-wool dress patterns that we will sell at our own price. CARSON & Co.

Canvas your tobacco beds; you are then sure of plants—Fair Bros. & Co. have the cotton at the lowest prices.

Don't let your horse stand out next week when you can put up at Field & Holbrook's to hay all day for 15 cents.

Mr. J. M. Brown and Miss Verda Blankenship were married at the bride's home, near Beaver Dam, Wednesday.

The Hartford House has been renovated from top to bottom and solicits your patronage.

W. M. BELL, Proprietor.

12 pairs of men's boots left out of 25 cases. Just think of it, at Fair Bros. & Co's you can get these boots for $1.50 per pair—worth $2.50.

Miss Joysey Likens died at the home of her uncle, Mr. J. H. Likens, Tuesday morning, and was buried at Bethel Church Wednesday, Rev. G. J. Bean conducting funeral services.

Mr. W. M. Reed and Miss Daisy Miller, of Taylor Mines, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony yesterday at the Hartford House by Judge Jno. P. Morton.

Mr. T. J. Fielden and Miss Sallie Ann Bennett, of Taylor Mines, were married at the Hartford House yesterday, Judge Jno. P. Morton performing the ceremony.

Stop at the Hartford House. Everything first-class. Special attention given to traveling men. Special rates to jurymen and witnesses by the week.

W. M. BELL, Proprietor.

The protracted meeting at Shinkle Chapel conducted by Revs. Perryman and Felix is growing in interest with each coming to-gather. There have been 15 conversions, and the altar is crowded with penitent souls, inquiring the way to everlasting life.

Marriage license: George Daniel to Miss Mary Alva Stevens, W. E. Chappan to Miss Emma C. Carter R. S. Jackson to Miss Mattie A. Shultz, J. M. Brown to Miss Verda Blankenship, T. J. Fielden to Miss Sallie Ann Bennett, W. M. Reed to Miss Daisy Miller.

We have lately sent out a large number of bills to our subscribers who are in arrears, and have received a large number of remittances. To those who have responded so cheerfully we return thanks and would say to those yet in arrears, let the shekels continue to come in.

T. Morton Wednesday filed suit in the Ohio Circuit Court against F. C. Mills and H. B. Lapoint, and sued out a restraining order, preventing said defendant's moving a lot of machinery from the lands leased by plaintiff and defendants for purpose boring for oil.

We received an invitation from Dr. and Mrs. G. L. Shepard, of Sedalia, Mo., to be present at the marriage of their daughter, Grace, to Mr. Le Roy Gregory, which occurred at their home last Thursday. Mr. Gregory was formerly a native of our town, and has many friends here who wish him a long and happy married life.

Mr. R. S. Jackson and Miss Mattie A. Shultz, of near Prentiss, were married last Wednesday at the home of the bride's father, Mr. J. H. Shultz, at 3 o'clock p. m., Rev. G. W. Gordon performing the ceremony in the presence of quite a circle of friends and relatives. Mr. Jackson is one of Ohio county's sturdy young farmers, and is a deserving, popular young gentleman, while his bride is a perfect lady, and well worthy the excellent young man of her choice.

BEAVER DAM.

A Newsy Letter From Our Neighboring Town

Last Wednesday night Mr. Sanford K. Newman, a popular Louisville drummer, was highly entertained at the Austin House by Misses M. B. Clark, Anna McKenney and Virgeline Hooker, and Mr. C. P. Austin, host, and sister, Miss Attye, hostess. The nice music rendered by Miss Clark was relished by all. A few of her vocal selections which deserve mention were: "O, Promise Me," "Call Me Thine Own" and "When Stars are Shining." Many others of his choice selections were sung by Misses McKenney and Austin. The instrumental music rendered by Misses Clark and Hooker was the latest of the season. After Mr. Newman had bestowed his compliments on each young lady the party disbanded, bidding the host and hostess a pleasant good evening.

Miss Teenie Hays, Rochester, spent Friday and Saturday in town with her sisters, Mrs. J. P. McKenney and Miss Leta Hays.

Miss Dora E. Gibson spent Saturday and Sunday at her home in Hartford.

Rev. Perryman did not fill his regular appointment here Sunday as he is holding a protracted meeting at Shinkle Chapel.

Miss Lizzie Barnes, Goshen, is spending this week in town with friends and relatives.

Misses M. B. Clark and Anna McKenney spent Saturday night with Misses Attye and Sadie Austin.

Miss May Willis, Rochester, is here taking vocal lessons from Miss Clark.

Misses Fannie and Emma Barnes spent Sunday afternoon in the country with Miss Lula Barnes.

Mr. E. C. Taylor and family, McHenry, have moved onto a farm in the Goshen neighborhood.

Miss Verda Blankenship was married to Mr. J. R. Brown, Rochester, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The ceremony was pronounced by Rev. Davis. Only a few of the family's most intimate friends were present. After refreshments were served the couple accompanied by his brother and Misses Minnie Blankenship and Lottie Barnard left for the groom's parents where a reception was to be in the evening. We extend to the happy couple a host of good wishes.

ATTY.

For Seed Oats, call on the old reliable C. R. Martin.

A CHIL.
ROSE, Ky., Feb. 23, 1895.

We the undersigned citizens of Ohio county would respectfully solicit Capt. David Duncan to be a candidate for the office of Representative of Ohio county.

M. S. Ragland, Jas D Byers, J. L. Liles, J. C. Satterfield, S. R. Kendall, Wm Hollifield, Luther Johnson, W. H. Pierce, J. W. Peach, T. J. Bryant, G. C. Crowder, W. P. Thomas, Cyrus Johnson, A. B. Pierce, Ed Pierce, I. W. Pierce, John H. Grady, Henry Crowder, W. M. Bryant, Jonathan Raley, George Willson, C. P. Wallace, J. M. Ashford, J. C. Davis, U. G. Ragland, Sam Wallace, J. F. Allen, S. Raley, D. C. Allen, C. C. Johnson, B. M. Haven, B. M. Davis, D. A. Pierce, T. J. Watson, Wm Pierce, John Johnson, Geo. Kuykendall, G. W. Headdy, T. J. Wedding.

CONCORD.
News scarce. Health good.

The Baptist Church at Concord is nearing completion.

Bro. Craig filled Bro. Cox's appointment at Concord Sunday.

Mr. Tonie McDowell and wife visited Mr. F. W. Pirtle's Sunday.

Messrs. Harlan Coppage and Tommy Harrison, Fordville, visited the family of J. R. Coppage Saturday and Sunday.

Misses Inez York and Cora Allen and Mr. Grant Byers visited Jerome Allen's, near Jingo, last Sunday.

Mr. Lonnie Lee visited his parents near Sunnydale Sunday.

Miss Georgia Pirtle is visiting relatives near Spring Lick.

Mr. Lewis Chapman visited his brother, near Beaver Dam, Saturday and Sunday.

Success to THE REPUBLICAN.

BARTHOLOMEW.

Endorsements Withdrawn.
Rev. C. C. Marston, of Olympia, Wash., arrived in St. Louis a few months ago, ostensibly on his way to London. On the ground of his former good standing in the denomination, and at his request we gave him commendatory letters for his use while abroad. In the past few days we have learned that Mr. Marston has been guilty of grossly immoral conduct unbecoming a minister and a gentleman. We hereby give notice to all concerned that we revoke our endorsements, and caution everyone against giving him their confidence on the warrant of our names:

J. C. ARMSTRONG, Ed. Cen. Baptist, A. W. PAYNE, Bus. Mgr. Cen. Baptist, LEWIS E. KLINE, Mgr. Bap. Pub. Society, St. Louis, A. M. DURO, Pastor 1st Bap. Church East St. Louis, E. ANDERSON, Pastor Grand Avenue Bap. Church, St. Louis.

The good people of Hartford and Beaver Dam will remember a certain

Rev. C. C. Marston, who came into the aforesaid towns, claiming to be a returned Missionary from Australia having been six years in that country, and having had a most wonderful experience, preaching, teaching and laboring among the "Bushmen and Cannibals" of that wild region. The above endorsements, from the distinguished men, who now withdraw their statements, having discovered that the said Marston is a great fraud and impostor, were the endorsements that influenced me to endorse him here; hence, when strong suspicions of the genuineness of his character sprung up here at the time, I still stood for this infamous scullion, because he was endorsed as above. But now being fully satisfied that he is an impostor of the lowest and meanest grade, I take this method of asking the pardon of all for having given him any countenance, and I now make haste to brand him as a villain of the first water. J. S. COLEMAN.

Dr. J. R. Pirtle, who has just graduated from the Dental Department of Vanderbilt University, has returned to Hartford and will occupy his former office over Williams & Bell's drug store.

MURDERED CHILD

Found on the Streets of Taylor Mines Tuesday Evening.

CORONER HELD INQUEST

On Tuesday evening about 5 o'clock a message was received from Taylor Mines over the telephone asking that the Coroner come to that point at once, that a man had been found dead on the streets of that town. The Coroner, Mr. Galen C. Westerfield, was in the neighborhood of Cromwell, and so the parties at Taylor Mines were telephoned, informing them of the fact. Nothing whatever could be learned Tuesday night of the affair. Various rumors to the effect that the man had been shot, that he had been killed by falling coal in the mines, were heard Wednesday morning early another telegram was received from Taylor Mines, asking if Mr. Westerfield was coming out. The Taylor Mines people had not received the message of the evening before.

This message was answered telling where Mr. Westerfield could be found. About 9 o'clock that gentleman arrived in Hartford and learning of the affair, in company with Dr. E. W. Ford, at 12:30 started to Taylor Mines. By this time it had been learned here that the dead person was a new born negro baby found in the outskirts of the town with its head mashed.

Coroner Westerfield and Dr. Ford reached Taylor Mines about 2 o'clock. Magistrate Jont B. Wilson in the meantime had been sent for and had arrived and summoned a jury and various witnesses, including Dr. B. N. Patterson. He also summoned Dr. Ford to assist in the post mortem examination, and the Coroner to assist in holding the inquest.

The child was found in the western part of town 150 yards from the tip house. It was a newly born negro baby boy supposed to have been born Monday night. Its head was crushed and as some hair from the child's head was found on a log lying ten feet away, it was supposed to have been thrown or struck against the log by the slayer. The jury returned a verdict in which they declared in substance that the child had been murdered by some unknown party and that from the evidence a negro woman living in the town was the mother of the child. The body had remained and been guarded where found until the inquest, after which the Coroner ordered its burial.

Several citizens of the town met at the office of Supt. Shultz Tuesday night and discussed the proposed plan of holding a meeting here during the summer for the purpose of bringing the facilities of Hartford and Ohio county before the people in some effectual manner. After some discussion a mass meeting of the citizens of the town was called to meet in connection with the Commercial Club to-night.

KINDERHOOK.
Feb. 26.—The farmers are busy burning tobacco beds and clearing ground for another crop.

Mr. B. S. Ellis has returned from Daviess county.

Messrs. A. K. Ward, J. W. Stevens, T. L. Anderson, A. E. Ellis and B. H. Ellis went to Shinkle Chapel Sunday night.

Misses Marsha and Clara Webb went to Shinkle Chapel Sunday night.

Mr. L. B. Mills went to Pleasant Ridge Monday on business.

Several of the larger scholars have stopped school on account of farm work.

The last meeting of the No Creek Literary Society was a grand success. It was the night for the election of new officers. A. K. Ward was elected President; U. C. Barnett, Vice President; C. B. Hays, Attorney. This Society is the best in the county.

Wake up, writers, and let us hear from you through THE REPUBLICAN.

COW BOY.

Remember you get the New York Tribune and THE REPUBLICAN both for one year, for one dollar and twenty-five cents.

COLORED DEPARTMENT

[BY F. A. GARY.]

The Hon. Frederick Douglass, the great statesman and orator, passed away Wednesday, Feb. 20. He was born a slave in Talbot county, Md., February 1817. His first experience in life was with his grandmother and grandfather, Betsey and Isaac Bailey. His recollection of his mother was vague, as she was hired out at quite a distance from him when he was quite young and he could see her only by night, when she was compelled to return the same night in order to respond to the slave-driver's call to the field early the next morning. Living with his grandmother, whose kindness stood in the place of his mother, it was some time before he knew he was a slave, but this happiness was soon ended for as soon as he was old enough he was taken from her and carried to life with his old master. Having been left with his old master he was under the care of an old slave woman, who treated him very mean and almost starved him. His master, Capt. Anthony, was manager on the plantation of Col. Loyd, a large planter in Maryland and there the subject of this sketch witnessed the course of slavery in all its degrading phases, from a reprimand to cold blooded murder.

After staying on the Loyd plantation for some years he was sent to Baltimore to live with a Mr. Hugh Auld, a relative of Capt. Anthony. There he was treated very kindly and his work was to take care of little Tommy Auld. Here his mistress taught him how to read and continued to teach him until she was informed by her husband that slavery and education would not work together, but it was too late, having kindled a spark in a combustible mind, no difference how hard she tried to smother it, it continued to burn. He lived in Baltimore until his old master and young mistress both died and Hugh and Thomas Auld had a misunderstanding, and greatly against his will he was returned to Thomas Auld. While living with Hugh Auld he enjoyed the blessings of getting enough to eat, but with Thomas Auld he was so pinched by hunger that he was compelled to live at the expense of his neighbors or steal from his mother, if such could be called, which I don't think could consistently be called stealing. Since the health and strength derived from such food were exerted in his master's service, it was simply running the food from one vessel to another; and the ownership was not affected by the transaction.

Here he and a young man named Wilson opened a Sunday School for colored children and taught one Sunday and on the next Sunday as they were getting in a good way of teaching a mob, led by some of the class teachers in the Methodist Church, of which his master was a member, came in on them armed with clubs and other missiles and drove them off and ordered them to never be caught in such an act again. After this he was hired to a negro breaker. The first six months he lived with Covey, the negro breaker, he was subjected to all sorts of ill treatments until he found that forbearance ceased to be a virtue, when he resented his ill treatment by giving his breaker a thrashing and the remaining six months was spent in peace and quietness, so far as the lash was concerned.

He was the next year hired to a better man, but he still wanted his freedom and was studying the geography of the country preparatory for making his escape to the free States. After this he made an unsuccessful attempt to escape from slavery with several others and was sent to Baltimore to learn a trade. He was afterwards allowed to hire his own time. After which he escaped slavery. On the 4th day of September 1838 he landed in the city of New York a free man. For fear of being recaptured he left New York and made his home in New Bedford, Mass. He attended an anti-slavery convention at Nantucket under auspices of Mr. William Lloyd Garrison, and made a speech and was appointed agent for the anti-slavery society. He lectured in many of the New England States and made many friends for the cause of Abolition. He had many trials, but having enlisted in a good cause he continued to persevere and thus did more for the cause of Abolition than any other one man.

He made a visit to England and lectured there and enlisted the sympathy of the leading men of that country in his enterprise. He also visited Ireland and formed the acquaintance of Daniel O'Connell, the great Irish leader, and lectured in Connelly Hall, where he was introduced by the great statesman as a black O'Connell of America. He also visited Scotland and Wales where he was warmly received. While abroad money was raised with which to purchase his freedom and $2,500 was also raised and given him to start a newspaper. He established a paper known as the North Star in Rochester, N. Y., and was ever to be found in the hottest of the fight for the liberation of the slaves from that time on to the emancipation. He deserves more honor for the emancipation of the slave than any other man.

The colored people of Hayti will hold memorial services next Monday night in honor of freedman orator.

Miss Lula Walker and Mr. D. Thomas Taylor were united in the holy bonds of matrimony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Walker, of Hayti, on the 21st ult, in the presence of a few of the relatives and friends. Rev. Wm. Johnson officiated. It was the most beautiful marriage that we have witnessed for many days, and Rev. Johnson knows just how to put them together in the most modern style. Mr. Taylor is working at the Renter Mines and the bride will stay with her parents until some time in March when they will go to house keeping at the Mines.

Mr. Jack McHenry returned home from Owensboro, where he had been staying ever since last October.

Mrs. Julia Rucker is very sick; her many friends are much alarmed, fearing that her sickness may prove fatal.

Otis Hines was fooling with a gun last Monday evening, which was accidentally discharged, the ball striking Pearl Walker. As good luck would have it, he was so far from him that it did no harm, more than to burn him a little. It is to be hoped that the boys will let firearms alone or be more careful.

Mr. H. C. Pace and family have moved to Hopkinsville. We hate very much to give them up, but the best of friends have to part.

Next Sunday is Rev. J. H. Ealy's regular day at the Alpha Baptist Church and all the members and friends are expected to be present. Church meeting Saturday night, communion Sunday.

Out on a Strike.
Twelve weavers at the Woolen Mills object to an obnoxious rule says the Owensboro Messenger. Twelve female weavers at the woolen mills went out on a strike yesterday. On January 1, all the hands agreed to a 10 per cent cut, but they now claim that they are making such good goods, they are entitled to their old wages. The prices paid up to January 1 were equal to those all over the country, but now they are 10 per cent below the standard the weavers claim. Manager A. B. Phillips told those who did not want to work for the present scale to walk out and says he will not allow any of them to return to work.

Manager Phillips says the trouble arose over broken warp and knots of cotton in the filler and a notice was posted in the mill which as follows: "Lost thread road, broken warp or knots of cotton over 2 inches, the weaver of such cloth will be docked."

When this was known throughout the mill the weavers walked out. They went to Mr. Phillips about the matter but received no satisfaction. He told all those who went out on a strike they need never apply to him for work again.

The demand for the restoration of the old scale was the result of the new rule established by the notice. One young lady made the assertion that she would cut the warps out of the loom of any one of the crowd who went to work under the new rule at the same price. Only three remained at work.

ROSE.
Feb. 27.—Our Spring school will open next Monday conducted by Miss Annie M. Allen.

Mr. M. S. Ragland is having an addition built to his house on McHenry St.

Mrs. Elizabeth Duke, of Cromwell, who has been visiting relatives near town, returned to her home to-day.

Mrs. H. T. Thompson, Horton, visited her mother Mrs. R. E. Childs Saturday and Sunday.

A. E. White and Wallace Graves, Horse Branch made a flying trip to our town Sunday.

J. D. Whittinghill made a trip to Horton yesterday in interest of the John G. Miller Clothing Co.

Miss Nellie Ragland returned home Sunday from a visit to friends in the Sugar Grove neighborhood.

Quite a number of our young people attended the school interment at Mt. Pleasant Friday.

R. W. Ragland returned from a business trip to Evansville, Thursday.

Miss Missouri Bratcher, of Mt. Pleasant, is the guest of Mrs. L. B. Crowder.

Miss Fannie Overton is visiting her grandmother Mrs. J. W. Taylor, MIGNON.

Advertising Requires Skill and Sense.
The paper that goes to reading people, to thinking people into homes, into counting rooms, among the customers of merchants, has a clientele that is worth more to a man who has something to sell than the paper of accidental sales which is bought for its coupon interest and thrown away as soon as the coupon is cut out. What is that sort of circulation good for except to wear out? There's a difference in people and a difference in papers, and the advertiser who doesn't realize this doesn't know his business.—[Hartford Courant.]

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN and the Louisville Weekly Commercial—both one year for $1.25 per year.

THE REPUBLICAN and St. Louis Globe-Democrat (semi-weekly) for $1.50 per year, for subscribers who pay up and one year in advance.

How to Make It Pay.
If people exercised as much care and shrewdness when investing in advertising as they do when investing in banks, mining stocks and real estate, there would be more believers in the value of printer's ink.—[Printer's Ink.]

Acting through the blood, Hood's Sarsaparilla not only cures scrofula, salt rheum, etc., but gives health and vigor to the whole body.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Award.

Mrs. L. E

Hartford Republican

FRIDAY, MARCH 1, 1895.

Profit $88.25 the First Three Days.

A few weeks ago I read in your paper how Mrs. Griffith made a great deal of money selling a new method of putting up fruit. Here is what I did with an Old Reliable Plater. The first three days that I had the Plater I plated 75 sets of knives, forks, spoons, etc., which, when delivered, brought me in about $92.00, cost of metal about $3.75, leaving a gross profit of $88.25 for my time and trouble, and everyone was well pleased with the work, and I came home with double the amount of goods to be plated. I average about $150 work per week. I have been a traveling salesman, but have given it up; the plating business suits me. Anyone can obtain an Old Reliable Plater by addressing W. P. Harrison & Co., Columbus, Ohio. Anyone out of work should take this opportunity to get employment and make money.

C. M. REID, Columbus, Ohio.

USED TO BE HIS WIFE.

A Matter-of-Fact Views of a Serious Situation.

I sat in the Sheriff's office talking with him about a man in his charge who was to be hanged three days later, when a woman was announced and in walked a female who had passed 50 says a writer in the Memphis Avalanche. Her face was wrinkled, her hair was thin and white and her voice seemed to come out of a red as she asked:

"Hev' yo' got a man in this yere prison named Thomas Jackson?"

"Yes'm," remarked the official.

"Did he kill somebody about three months ago?"

"He did, ma'am."

"And has he bin tried for murder and sentenced to be hung?"

"He is to be hung on Friday" ma'am."

"He is, eh?" she queried as she took a pipe from her pocket and proceeded to fill and light. "Ar' yo' the man who is goin' to hang him?"

"I shall have to carry out the law."

"Yaas, of co'se. Folks hav' got to be hung, and we hav' got to hang 'em. How does Tom b'ar up under it?"

"Very well indeed, ma'am. I think he will die like a man."

"He will die like a man, that's more'n he ever lived. Tom's allus bin mighty onery."

"Are you a relative?"

"Used to be his wife, but done left him. Yaas, lived with Tom for sixteen y'ars."

"And you have come to say farewell to him?"

"No, sir. I'm on my way to Collinsville, and thought I'd jest run in fur a minit. No, I don't care to see him, but yo' kin say I called."

"Yes'm."

"And that I'm sorry he's to be hung."

"Yes'm."

"But that as long as he's got to be hung and can't get it of that hain't no use in fussin' around."

"Yes'm."

"If he axes fur anythin' mo' yo' kin say that I'm well, or boy Sam ar' well; the dawg ar' dead, and I've jest put in two acres of co'n and am gettin' ready to go to a camp meetin' next week. That's all. Some folks hev got to be hung, and other folks hev to hang 'em, and Tom Jackson might jest as well be puttin' in his time on the gallus as loafin' around and wishin' he was rich."—[Exchange.]

An effective advertisement is an anchor, which will often hold a disabled business from drifting on to the ragged reef of financial failure.

Advertising Requires Skill and Sense.

The paper that goes to reading people, to thinking people into homes, into counting rooms, among the customers of merchants, has a cloutage that is worth more to a man who has something to sell than the paper of accidental sales which is bought for its coupon interest and thrown away as soon as the coupon is cut out. What is that sort of circulation good for except to wear out? There's a difference in people and a difference in papers, and the advertiser who doesn't realize this doesn't know his business.—[Hartford Courant.]

St. Jackson's Day.

The anniversary of the Battle of New Orleans comes at a time to emphasize sharply the difference between the hero of that historic fight his present successor in the White House.

Andrew Jackson was an American, from the bristling shock of hair that crowned his head to the slippers in which he lounged around the White House kitchen. His patriotism part of his being. He never flinched or hired a substitute when summoned to bear arms in defense of his country. As boy and men he fought for the Republic. He faced Indian or red coats, and plunged into Florida swamps or hastened to the lower Mississippi with equal alacrity in upholding the honor of "Old Glory." He loved his country, because he knew from personal experience at what a tremendous cost its independence had been bought.

As Chief Magistrate of the nation, Andrew Jackson never indulged in cant about "consecration" to duty, but he did his duty tearlessly and honestly according to his lights. He was a persistent champion of protection to American industry and gloried in the fact. He was the outspoken foe of monopoly and corruption. He was the uncompromising enemy of dishonest and unsound money. He did not solemnly announce that "public office is a public trust" and then turn over the public service to a horde of spoilsmen. He did not sell ambassadorships in return for Democratic campaign contributions. He did not pose as the friend of popular rule and then use his great office to reinstate a savage despot. He detested shame and he took the people into his confidence. During his career as President the public debt was practically wiped out, not increased at the rate of $100,000,000 a year.

To-day's anniversary serves chiefly to remind Democracy how far downhill it has traveled from Andrew Jackson to Grover Cleveland. It also serves to recall the vast difference between a policy of Americanism and glory and a policy of egotism infamy and disaster.—[N. Y. Advertiser.]

An advertisement in the paper is worth two on the fence.

The New Century.

The immediate prospect of a brilliant opening for the new century is therefore luminous with encouragement; the sky brightens momentarily, and the glorious dawn foretells a yet more glorious day. We may confidently look for many and startling surprises, the growth of new forces that will lift the people to loftier heights of ethical and intellectual activity, into a region bright and glowing with perennial beauty, where the air is mottled and the skies ever serene—a world of infinite progress, of virtuous brotherhood, and the love of man for his fellow, of the charity and selfishness. Already a studious advance has been made; and we have a right to believe that the hour is only waiting to usher in a grand and glorious area of human progress. This prospect of success for a new century even now is blossoming into a vital activity and golden fruition of material beauty and moral excellence, under the guidance of public opinion and current events, how so rapidly unfolding to culminate in a symmetrical future.—[Demorest's Magazine for March.]

Have you renewed your subscription for 1895?

The California Fig Syrup Co., of San Francisco, says that notwithstanding the dull times generally prevailing during the past two years, its continued extensive advertising has been productive of good results. This advertising will not only not fall off, but will be increased. The Company says: "We believe that manufacture who spend large amounts of money in advertising and thereby making business for themselves and all druggists, as well, and who endeavor to maintain regular prices to the best of their ability for their products, are entitled to the most favorable consideration from the drug trade."—[Exchange.]

WALKING BEAN MYSTERY.

Explained by the Presence of a Caterpillar in the Interior of the Bean.

Many persons who have purchased the walking beans have wondered why such a hard, impenetrable object should exhibit so much life. To gratify my philosophical turn of mind and being convinced that it was not electrified, I carefully removed a segment of the flat side, when I discovered a species of caterpillar. As nature had not provided it with any natural warm covering, the cold exposure made it torpid until I placed it under the glass cylinder of a microscope, when it soon felt the warmth and began to thatch over the opening in its roof. This it did by spinning a silken web and attaching it to each side and coating it with some mastic until it was completely incased. Its modus operandi as seen through a microscope was extremely interesting. I would advise great care in opening it, as the least wound would destroy it, also keep the beans in a box for fear that when they emerge from their cocoon they may be a species of the Egyptian moth which will cost the commonwealth another hundred thousand dollars to exterminate.

It would be interesting to the public to hear from some naturalist about their origin, and if the so-called bean is the cocoon of the insect or a vegetable product in which it immolates itself for the winter and emerges in the spring as a beautiful butterfly or a destructive caterpillar.—[Boston Transcript.]

Menu for Luncheon.

A menu for a simple luncheon that requires very little work and little expense is cold-boiled ham garnished with parsley, creamed browned potatoes sent to table in baking-dish, velvet rolls and pickled cauliflower. For the second course, oyster salad and warm seafood wafers; and for the third, lemon jelly tinted pale green and filled with green grapes, fig-crackers and coffee. The jelly should be allowed to stand until it begins to harden, then pour a little in the mold and lay in it a perfect bunch of grapes. Pour in more jelly, scatter through it single grapes, then more jelly and grapes until the mold is full. Other fruits may be used, and, if it is liked, plain or whipped cream may be served with the jelly.—N. Y. Post.

Popping It Gravely.

In putting "the question of questions," a Scotchman took his inamorate to his family burial ground, and said: "Would ye lie there, Jeanie, by-and-by?" She said she would, and thus the thing was settled.—Harlem Life.

In Voluntary Exile.

The number of Russian peasants who voluntarily emigrated to Siberia was 9,000 in 1885, 39,000 in 1890, 80,000 in 1891, and 100,000 in 1892.

The World's Fair Tests

showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

SOCIAL LIFE IN WASHINGTON

The Element of Schandal is Not so Conspicuous After all.

Special to THE REPUBLICAN.

The notion that prevails to some extent that society in Washington is composed of rather dubious elements is not so surprising when it is considered how fully the glare of the searchlight of public notoriety is turned upon social movements at the Nation's capital. As far as official society, at least, is concerned, those prominent as leaders are the members of the families of public men. The American public has fallen into the habit of being interested in whatever concerns our public men, and the female members of the families of these officials come in for a share of this interest. Everything connected with the daily life of such people, what they wear and what they eat and where they go, is chronicled, at length in the daily press and is read from one end of the country to the other. If this gossip can be seasoned with the spice of a little scandal, the opportunity is not neglected, and the spice is used with an unsparring hand.

Recently there have appeared veiled allusions in the newspapers relative to a probable divorce suit as the end of a marriage in high life, which took place in this city not very long ago. The details are given with a certain vagueness which is probably owing to the immature condition of the scandal which is alleged to be about to burst upon the astonished gaze of the world. When all the facts are known, if the affair ever reaches the point of a divorce, it will be found to be only the ordinary experience of the average girl who has married either with too great confidence in her powers to reform a dissipated man, or with a mistaken trust that the man of her choice is better than he really is. It may be that the decided stand which the wife in this case has taken may lead to the desired reformation in the husband, and that legal method will not be necessary.

There is another instance here in the matrimonial mishaps in the family of a prominent family, which is being talked about a great deal. There is no reason to suppose that there is any connection between high office and the domestic unhappiness of the daughters of the family of the person who is honored with such a mark of public esteem and confidence, but it is a fact that the prominence of the father lends additional interest to the private affairs of the members of the family.

In striking contrast with the publicity given to the unhappiness or misfortunes of the female relation of high officials, is the profound silence which the newspapers maintain relative to the delinquencies and the weaknesses of the officials themselves.

There are well known instances of men holding exalted positions who indulge in dissipation of various kinds. Their weakness in these particulars are known outside of the circle of their personal acquaintances, yet unless there is some fragment art committed, the mangle of silence is thrown over their shortcomings, and they escape unpleasant notoriety which newspaper publication gives.

The other evening a well known member of the upper House was seen in a street car in such a condition of intoxication that he could not maintain an upright position, but sat with his feet sprawling out across the aisle attracting the attention of everyone who entered the car to his muddled condition. The correspondent to one of the leading newspapers in the country happened to be in the car, and when an acquaintance referred to the spectacle, he said in a casual way, "Oh, that is his usual condition."

It did not, however, suggest to him a topic for a newspaper paragraph. While it should not be inferred that all of our statesmen are in the habit of coming home in such a condition, the case serves to illustrate the difference in the treatment of the failings of public men and of those of the female members of their families.

A close observer of social life of this city is apt to remark upon the individual freedom which custom sanctions, and which may be regarded as one of the prevailing features of social intercourse at the Capital. This may be called cosmopolitan or any other term which indicates a blending of diverse elements and an ease of intercourse which is free from the shackles of the social distinctions of the ordinary city. In spite of the strong temperance sentiment, wine continues to be dispensed as a part of the refreshments offered at nearly all the social functions. It may be added that its use and not its abuse may be one of the reasons for its place in the social world. In view of the freedom of social life, the almost universal serving of liquor, and the extremely youthful age at which girls now appear in society, it is surprising at the scandals in society life are not more numerous and flagrant. But liberty is not license, and because a young girl in Washington society enjoys an almost unrestricted freedom, it does not follow that she has not that strong sense of propriety and the sense of self-respect which enables her to pass through temptation unharmed.

Remember you get the New York Tribune and THE REPUBLICAN both for one year, for one dollar and twenty-five cents.

General or local Agents, $75 a week. Repub. territory. The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

The World's Currencies.

The last number of the Reform Club's Sound Currency series is "The World's Currencies" by Richard P. Rothwell.

In concise form are given as to each of the thirty odd principal currencies of the world not merely full statistics as to coinage, silver and gold ratios, legal tender laws, etc.; but also as to paper issues, terms upon which they are secured or unsecured, quasi or complete legal tender, as well as a description of the more important banks of issue, the principles upon which they are operated, and the extent of their connection with government or independence of its direction.

Statistical and comparative tables supply numerous classes of data; so that the publication is a condensed cyclopaedia upon the subject it treats and not merely the first, but a most successful attempt by system and condensation to give an intelligent view of what to one attempting to master the subject has heretofore seemed an almost hopeless chaos.

Copies may be obtained by forwarding 5 cents to THE HARTFORD REPUBLICAN Hartford Ky.,

Notice. Mr. Galen C. Westfield has taken a position with THE REPUBLICAN as general solicitor and collector. Any and all business entrusted to his care will be promptly attended to.

Beware of Ointment for Catarrh That Contains Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and complete derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally and is made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by druggist, price 75c. per bottle. 28 1 mo.

Saleman Wanted.

Good wages to sell our Nursery Stock. Apply for terms. We will have for Spring and Fall, 1895, an immense stock of Apple, Pear, Peach, Plum, Apricot, Cherry, Grape, etc. Also small fruits, shade and ornamental trees roses, etc. We make a specialty of wholesaling to large planters direct. We will sell to responsible parties and take note payable in six, twelve and eighteen months.

Write us for wholesale prices. Address: SOUTHERN NURSERY CO., 25 St Winchester, Tenn.

NOTICE.

I WANT every man and woman in the United States interested in the Opioid and Whisky habits to have one of my books on these diseases. Address B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. Box 288, and one will be sent you free.

LOUISVILLE, ST. LOUIS & TEX. R. R. WEST BOUND daily.

No. 53.	No. 51.
Lv. Louisville	6:30 p m 7:30 a m
Ky. Street	6:45 p m 7:45 a m
West Point	7:25 p m 8:25 a m
Willowdale	7:30 p m 8:28 a m
Rock Haven	7:39 p m 8:37 a m
Long Branch	7:47 p m 8:45 a m
Brandenburg	8:04 p m 9:02 a m
Ekron	8:13 p m 9:11 a m
Guston	8:21 p m 9:19 a m
Irvineport	8:30 p m 9:28 a m
Webster	8:39 p m 9:37 a m
Lodiburg	8:45 p m 9:43 a m
Pierce	8:55 p m 9:53 a m
Sample	9:00 p m 10:00 a m
Stephensport	9:09 p m 10:09 a m
Addison	9:14 p m 10:14 a m
Holt	9:17 p m 10:20 a m
Cloverport	9:25 p m 10:33 a m
Shops	9:31 p m 10:37 a m
Skillman	9:43 p m 10:50 a m
Hawesville	9:54 p m 11:02 a m
Petrie	10:02 p m 11:09 a m
Falcon	10:07 p m 11:15 a m
Cayce	10:12 p m 11:19 a m
Lewisport	10:18 p m 11:25 a m
Waltman	10:25 p m 11:33 a m
Powers	10:35 p m 11:43 a m
Pates	10:48 p m 11:56 a m
Owensboro	10:59 p m 12:06 p m
Mattingly	11:09 p m 12:18 p m
Griffith	11:14 p m 12:23 p m
Worthington	11:18 p m 12:27 p m
Reads	11:25 p m 12:35 p m
Spottsville	11:45 p m 12:53 p m
Basketts	11:53 p m 12:59 p m
Ar. Henderson	12:10 a m 1:15 p m

EAST BOUND daily.

No. 54.	No. 52.
Lv. Henderson	7:20 a m 8:25 p m
Basketts	7:34 a m 8:39 p m
Spottsville	7:42 a m 8:47 p m
Reads	7:50 a m 8:55 p m
Worthington	7:58 a m 9:03 p m
Stanley	8:06 a m 9:11 p m
Griffith	8:09 a m 9:14 p m
Mattingly	8:17 a m 9:22 p m
Owensboro	8:30 a m 9:35 p m
Pates	8:40 a m 9:45 p m
Powers	8:55 a m 10:00 p m
Waltman	9:05 a m 10:10 p m
Lewisport	9:13 a m 10:18 p m
Cayce	9:19 a m 10:24 p m
Petrie	9:23 a m 10:28 p m
Hawesville	9:37 a m 10:42 p m
Skillman	9:48 a m 10:53 p m
Shops	10:00 a m 11:05 p m
Cloverport	10:05 a m 11:10 p m
Holt	10:20 a m 11:25 p m
Addison	10:23 a m 11:28 p m
Stephensport	10:28 a m 11:33 p m
Sample	10:37 a m 11:42 p m
Pierce	10:41 a m 11:46 p m
Lodiburg	10:49 a m 11:54 p m
Webster	10:57 a m 12:02 p m
Irvineport	11:05 a m 12:10 p m
Guston	11:14 a m 12:19 p m
Ekron	11:22 a m 12:27 p m
Brandenburg	11:31 a m 12:36 p m
Long Branch	11:39 a m 12:44 p m
Rock Haven	11:47 a m 12:52 p m
Willowdale	11:53 a m 12:58 p m
Howard	12:02 p m 1:07 p m
West Point	12:05 p m 1:10 p m
Ky. Street	12:15 p m 1:20 p m
Ar. Louisville	1:00 p m 2:05 p m

H. C. MORDUE, G. P. A. Louisville, Ky.

General or local Agents, $75 a week. Repub. territory. The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

W. P. HARRISON & CO., Clark St., Columbus, O.

Ohio County Directory.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Hon. W. T. Owen, Judge—Owensboro.

Hon. J. Edwin Rowe, Attorney—Owensboro.

John W. Black, Jailer—Hartford.

G. B. Likens, Clerk—Hartford.

B. D. Ringo, Master Commissioner—Hartford.

G. B. Likens, Trustee of Jury Fund—Hartford.

De P. Keown, Sheriff—Hartford.

Deputies—Samuel Keown—Hartford.

Jos. H. Roberts, Fordville, S. T. Stevens, Cromwell, Thos. R. Bishop, Centertown.

Court convenes first Monday in March and August and continues three weeks, and third Monday in May and November—two weeks.

COUNTY COURT.

John P. Mortan, Judge—Hartford.

D. M. Hocker, Clerk—Hartford.

E. P. Neal, Attorney—Hartford.

Court convenes first Monday in each month.

QUARTERLY COURT.

Begins on the third Monday in January, April, July and October.

COURT OF CLAIMS.

Convenes first Monday in January and Tuesday after the first Monday in October.

OTHER COUNTY OFFICERS.

G. S. Fitzhugh, Surveyor—Sulphur Springs.

Z. H. Shultz, School Superintendent—Hartford.

N. C. Daniel, Assessor—Cromwell.

Galen C. Westfield, Coroner—Hartford.

Mrs. Mizella Tanner, Poorhouse Keeper—Hartford.

JUSTICES COURTS.

Hartford—A. S. Anll, Sulphur Springs, March 2, June 1, September 2, December 2.

Cromwell—Jont. Wil son, Prentiss, March 9, June 8, September 7, December 7.

Rosine—C. L. Woodward, Centertown, March 13, June 13, September 13, December 13.

Buford—Ben F. Graves, Buford, March 30, June 29, September 28, December 28.

Fordville—James A. oil ng, Barretts Ferry, March 16, June 15, September 14, December 14.

CONSTABLES.

Hartford—Hosea Shown, Beda. Buford—J. L. Patton, Buford.

Fordville—H. H. H. Fordville, Rosine—Thos. Oller, Rosine.

Cromwell—R. B. Martin, Cromwell.

POLICE COURTS.

Hartford—James F. Carson, Judge; J. P. Stevens, Marshal. L. Kelly, Attorney. Court held every second Monday in each month.

Beaver Dam—D. A. Miller, Judge; Marshall. Court held first Saturday in January, April, July and October.

Cromwell—J. P. Cooper, Judge, Finis Burden, Marshal. Court held second Saturday in January, April, July and October.

Hamilton—L. Francis, Judge; D. W. Roll, Marshal. Court held on third Saturday in January, April, July and October.

Rockport—W. B. James, Judge; J. J. Glenn, Marshal. Court held on first Mondays in January, April, July and October.

Rosine—J. D. Ayers, Judge; H. Morris, Marshal. Court held first Saturdays in each month.

Centralo—N. B. Fulkerson, Judge; J. W. Garrett, Marshal. Courts held on fourth Saturday in January, April, July and October.

COMMERCIAL CLUB.

Meets at Court House every 2d and 4th Friday night. J. S. R. Wedding, President, C. R. Martin, Secretary.

TOWN TRUSTEES.

B. D. Ringo, Chairman; W. G. Hardwick, Clerk; S. K. Cox, C. L. Field, John P. Morton.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

L. F. Wornor, Rowan Holbrook, Dr. J. T. Miller, Chairman. E. P. Thomas Treasurer; T. L. Griffin, Secretary.

RELIGIOUS.

Baptist Church—Dr. J. S. Coleman, Pastor. Services second Sunday in each month, at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. Prayer meeting every Thursday evening.

M. E. Church—Rev. E. E. Pate, Pastor. Services every third Sunday in each month at 11 a. m. and at 7 p. m. Prayer meeting every Wednesday night.

Christian Church—Rev. I. H. Teel, Pastor. Services first Sunday in each month, morning and night.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

Rockport Lodge, No. 312, F. & A. M. meets regularly on the first and third Saturday nights in each month. Stated meeting of Hartford Lodge No. 675 F. & A. Masons, first Monday night in each month. All brethren are invited to attend regularly. G. J. can, W. M. Shelby Taylor Secretary.

Rough River Lodge No. 110 Knights of Pythias. Meets every Saturday night at Masonic Hall, B. D. Ringo, C. C.

Don't Stop Tobacco.

HOW TO CURE YOURSELF WHILE USING IT.—The tobacco habit grows on a man until his nervous system is seriously effected, impairing health, comfort and happiness. To quit suddenly is to severe a shock to the system, as tobacco, to a inveterate user, becomes a stimulant that his system continually craves. Baco-Curo is a scientific cure for the tobacco habit in all its forms, carefully compounded after the formula of an eminent Berlin Physician who has used it in his private practice since 1872, without a failure, purely vegetable and guaranteed perfectly harmless. You can use all the tobacco you want, while taking Baco-Curo, it will notify you when to stop. Wegivea written guarantee to permanently cure any case with three boxes, or refund the money with 10 per cent. interest. Baco-Curo is not a substitute, but a scientific cure, that c